After moving to Halifax, Nova Scotia, in 2005, she obtained her Masters in Fine and Media Arts at NSCAD University in 2007. Her performances and bookworks have been featured at the AGO presentation space, Vancouver Art Book Fair and are held in public and private permanent collections across Canada.

Artist Statement

I am a project-based artist working with printed matter in flat, sculptural, and performative manners. Archives, documents, text-based media and instructions are often activated through interdisciplinary applications, initiating a liminal space where print and paper transcend their materiality. My work simultaneously relates the term volumes to all books, performances, sculptural forms, and the sensorial slipping-space between the definitions of a word. My artistic practice addresses both the history and fate of printed matter as tangible objects in a virtual era. We may need to learn how to read again for the first time.
